Dear InSyst (PSP) System Users and Program Administrators,

Please be aware of some upcoming changes to the Episode Opening/Closing and Update screens. The InSyst (PSP) system will be updated for State required changes related to diagnoses. By 4/1/2017, InSyst will allow entry directly into the ICD-10 diagnosis fields.

As you know, the InSyst system has required entry of DSM-IV diagnosis codes and once the DMS primary diagnosis is entered, it crosswalks and displays the ICD-10 code.

Sample of current Episode screen showing DSM-IV diagnosis code entered on Axis I and cross walked by the system to ICD10 Code.

Effective 4/1/2017, all episodes that need to be opened with admission dates on or after 4/1/2017 will require the diagnosis entry on the ICD-10 field(s). Entry on the Axis I and Axis II fields will no longer be required unless you are entering an episode with an opening date prior to 4/1/2017.

These fields no longer require entries, unless opening an episode with an admission date prior to 4/1/2017:

Effective 4/1/2017, the data entry staff will be able to tab through and by-pass the DSM diagnosis fields. The biggest change you will see to the screens is that the system will now allow entries for ICD-10 diagnosis codes.

All new episodes (effective 4/1) will require at least one ICD-10 diagnosis code. The system will allow entry of a Primary and Secondary diagnosis. The Secondary is not required.

This is an example of one ICD-10 entry in the Primary position. The system displays the label associated with the code:

```
ICD10 Dx 1 to 5: F43.21
Pri: Adjustment disorder with depressed mood
Sec:

This is an example of entries in the Primary and Secondary diagnosis fields. The system displays the labels for both diagnoses:

```
ICD10 Pri: F15.20 Sec: F12.10
Pri: Other stimulant dependence, uncomplicated
Sec: Cannabis abuse, uncomplicated

Sample of screen with entry of a primary and secondary DSM code on the Axis I and Axis II fields. The system crosswalks the entries to the appropriate ICD-10 codes and displays the labels. To be used if you are opening an episode with a date prior to 4/1/2017.

Please note that any episode entered with a DSM code on Axis I or Axis II will display the cross walk to ICD-10 and will display the corresponding label. The primary ICD-10 code is what is used for claims produced by the system. If you enter or update an Episode and enter only the ICD-10 Code it does NOT cross walk backwards to DSM codes. However, effective 4/1/2017, there is no system requirement to enter DSM codes.

Important note: If you have an episode that was opened prior to 4/1/2017, the system would have cross walked the Axis I to the ICD-10 code. If you have a need to update the episode with a new diagnosis codes, then it is important to blank out the old Axis I codes by tabbing to that field and clearing the prior entry (you may use the Control-J combination or hit the space bar several times within the field. Once the old Axis I has been cleared, you may tab down to the ICD-10 code field and enter the new diagnosis using an ICD-10 code.
